a live online course for new and aspiring heads of science in secondary schools

www.astinconsulting.com

New to Science Leadership will help you gain confidence in leading a department - over 4 weeks, with interim tasks, you will learn strategies and techniques to go from surviving to inspiring, as well as building a network of peers.

Ideal for those recently appointed as head of science, or 2i/c, or with responsibility for a key stage within science. Also, if you aspire to be a HoS and are looking to strengthen your application, this course is for you!

The course will cover all aspects of science leadership for the 2020s: leadership and vision, teamwork, recruitment and retention, curriculum, teaching and learning, workload, quality assurance, difficult conversations and more.

Course leader: Christina Astin has 30 years' experience of science teaching and leading departments, as well as training teachers and advising schools.

She has been the Kent Secondary Science Advisor and is a National College science expert. She is also Advisor to Physics Partners and Chair of the Planet Possibility Consortium. Christina is a Fellow of both the Institute of Physics and the Chartered College of Teaching.

- Four Thursdays in Sept-Oct, 4.30–5.30 pm: 12/9, 19/9, 26/9, 3/10
- Colleagues are welcome from any type of secondary school, with any previous experience, located anywhere!
- The first 5 to book are offered a free 1:1 session with Christina
- A padlet will be used to share resources and ideas, and if you have to miss part of a session, we may be able to share the recordings afterwards.
